GENTLEMEN—I am delighted with the proofs in color of your chrames. They are wonderfully successful representations by mechanical process of the original painting. Very respecifully.

These chromos are in every man American. They are by an orinal American process, with material of American manufacture, from designs of American scenery by an American painter, and presented to subscribers to the first successful American art Journal. If no better because of all this, they will certainly possess an interest no foreign production can imprise, and neither are they any the worse if by messes of peculiar facilities of production that are said singly for double the subscriptor will send "Thoughts of Home" a new and beatiful chromo, laxib inches, representing a little Italian axis whose meaking eyes betray the longings of his heart.
